The Downfall Of Chivalry

The late Sen. Everette McKinley Dirksen once arrived a little late to address a women's group. He set things right with his opening sentence: "Girls, I'm a little breathless this morning - who wouldn't be with all this loveliness and all this grace." Such a line definitely would not do in 1972.

The woman thing seems to call for a whole different set of responses among politicians and ordinary citizens alike.

Repealing chivalry is especially traumatic for gentlemen of the old school. To take off a hat in an elevator with a women's lib type is to court a karate blow. A gentleman ought to walk to the outside when accompanying a lady, but that gesture can mark him indelibly as a male chauvinist. In an age of role reversal, the weak have become strong, and the strong weak. E. Dirksen made it out just in time, leaving the rest of male-kind to manage as best it can under difficult circumstances. - Florence (S.C.) Morning News

Advice We Didn't Need

We were interested in the report of two University of Louisville medical researchers who checked the germ content of money circulating around among their friends and neighbors.

Borrowing various coins and bills, the researchers ran cultures on them, found them heavily contaminated by disease-causing bacteria.

Pennies, nickels and small-denomination bills were more contaminated than the larger items, the team said, and we read on with interest as the doctors recommended people keep their money in the bank and carry only large bills, preferably the $50 and $100 denominations and "don't make change" and...

Editor to Appeal Fine, Sentence

By JOHN R. STARR

Associated Press Writer
TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP)—Circuit Judge John W. Goodson, holding that a right to a fair trial takes precedence over the rights of a free press, held a newspaper editor in contempt of court Wednesday for publishing a story in violation of a court order.

Goodson suspended a 60-day jail sentence and a $250 fine assessed as punishment of Harry Wood, executive editor of the Texarkana Gazette and News. Wood said the ruling would be appealed. He maintained in answer to the contempt citation that the newspaper had a right to publish the story, which was based on a rape trial jury verdict returned in open court Feb. 18.

Goodson ordered Wood not to report it in the Gazette on Feb. 19 because a trial of two other men on related charges was in progress. He said publication was barred because he felt there was "clear and present danger of jeopardizing the rights of the parties to a fair trial in a case then pending."

Goodson said in Wednesday's order holding Wood in contempt that he recognized that the case concerned conflict between the First and Sixth Amendments. He held that the Sixth, which guarantees a trial free of prejudice, takes precedence over the First, which guarantees a free press.

"The guarantee of the rights of the plaintiff and defendant to a fair and impartial trial is mandatory," Goodson ruled. Wood and his attorney, W. H. "Bill" Arnold, argued that the constitutional right to publish material obtained in open court was not subject to revocation by a judge.

Goodson accused Wood in his order of trying to set up a test case to challenge a set of fair trial-free press guidelines that the Arkansas Bar Association has asked the Arkansas Supreme Court to apply to Arkansas courts and news media. The rules would restrict coverage of criminal matters before and during trials.

Wood said that he had not started the fight with Goodson. "He ordered me not to publish the story," Wood said. "I didn't order him to order me not to publish it." Wood said he could not have been seeking a test case against the guidelines because the guidelines do not apply to use of material obtained in open court. Wood was one of two media representatives who voted against proposed guidelines when they were considered by a joint committee from the media and the legal profession. He said lawyer members of that committee continually assured the media representatives that no effort ever would be made to restrict trial coverage or other matters dealt with in open court.

They also were charged with possession of forged instruments, for documents they allegedly handled.

An "important announcement" scheduled later was expected to disclose the outcome of a federal grand jury probe into the "autobiography."

The grand jury investigations began six weeks ago.

At the outset, Irving and his 36-year-old wife took the Fifth Amendment and declined to discuss the circumstances surrounding preparation of the manuscript.

But last week, after authorities met at length with attorneys for the Irvings in numerous sessions, the couple agreed to testify. Each appeared before both grand juries for about 90 minutes.

The controversy began with the announcement last Dec. 7 that McGraw-Hill Inc. would publish an "autobiography" of Hughes, the billionaire recluse. Life magazine said at the same time it would run excerpts from the book.

Rosemont Enterprises, a Nevada corporation associated with Hughes, immediately denied the authenticity of the still unpublished volume. And a little-known novelist whose most successful book was "Fake!" suddenly became the focus of world attention.

federal funds.

The Senate's busing provisions would:

—Postpone enforcement of court rulings requiring pupil transfers from one school district to another until not later than June 30, 1973.

—Prohibit use of federal funds unless requested by local school officials, but in no event could the funds be used if busing would endanger pupils' health or "impinge on the educational process."

—Prohibit federal officials from urging or requiring busing "unless constitutionally required."

Murder Case Nears Jury

POTEAU, Okla. (AP) — Both the defense and prosecution expected a murder case against three Fort Smith, Ark., men to go to the jury here sometime today.

The three are charged in last January's shooting death of Hugh Teague, operator of a night club along the Oklahoma-Arkansas line near here. He was shot with a .22-caliber pistol and found in his home.

The state rested its case late Wednesday night after presenting about 40 witnesses.

5 Americans Are Killed

SAIGON (AP) — Five Americans were killed in action in Indochina last week, the U.S. Command announced today, and 38 were wounded. Nine other Americans died from non-hostile causes, according to the weekly casualty summary.

The South Vietnamese command claimed 1,300 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed last week, the largest number in a month. South Vietnamese losses were 302 killed and 713 wounded, the command said; the week before they were 360 killed and 729

Kidnaper Releases Girl

VISALIA, Calif. (AP) — Michelle Wiebe, who spent her 9th birthday with kidnapers, says one of the abductors "talked mean" but another "tried to make me feel comfortable."

Michelle, daughter of auto dealer Arnold Wiebe, was released Wednesday by three men who were thwarted in an attempt to collect $300,000 ransom.

Her father had left a suitcase in a field four hours before Michelle was set free, although a passing motorist picked up the bag and turned it over to police before the kidnapers could get it.

4 Killed in Crash at Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Four prominent Tulsa, Okla., businessmen were killed Wednesday evening when their single-engine airplane crashed into West Mountain shortly after takeoff from the Hot Springs Airport.

State Police identified the victims as George P. Nicklau Jr., Jack Henshaw, Joseph Dunham and Robert E. Weaver. Henshaw was 43. The ages of the others were not available.

Officers said the men were real estate developers. They had been to the horse races at Oaklawn Park here and were returning home when the crash occurred, according to business associates of the four.

A spokesman at the airport said the plane had just taken off and the pilot, who was believed to be Nicklau, asked for permission to make a left turn. The control tower granted permission to make the turn and the plane turned into the mountain. At the time of the crash, the weather was clear and the visibility was about 35 miles, according to airport officials.

Fire Chief Vern Smith said the crash occurred about 6 p.m. and the plane burst into flames on impact. He said the fire from the crash had burned a large area on the side of the mountain located about a mile and a half from the airport. The fire was still burning this morning, officials said.

Jones Wants 2 Counts Dropped

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. Guy H. "Mutt" Jones of Conway, who was indicted Feb. 10 by a federal Grand Jury on four-counts of income tax evasion and filing false income tax returns, asked Wednesday that two counts be stricken from the indictment.

The motion argued that counts 2 and 4 of the indictment, which charged Jones with swearing to an income tax return he allegedly knew was false, constituted the same alleged offenses charged in counts 1 and 3, which charged that Jones knowingly evaded paying federal income tax. The motion alleged that returning a four-count indictment from only two alleged offenses was a violation of Jones' rights under the Fifth Amendment.

TWA Is Negotiating With Extortionists

NEW YORK (AP) — Bomb threats interrupted air travel in several parts of the nation Thursday in the aftermath of a plot in which extortionists planted bombs on two Trans World Airlines jetliners and demanded $2 million ransom.

Extraordinary security precautions were in effect on TWA and other airlines after a sophisticated bomb exploded in the cockpit of an unoccupied TWA jet in Las Vegas Wednesday. A bomb was found in the cockpit of a TWA plane at New York's Kennedy airport Tuesday and defused.

Neither TWA nor federal authorities would comment on a report Wednesday by the New York Daily News that TWA was negotiating with extortionists or on a report Thursday by the New York Post that TWA had lost contact with the extortionists.

New York police would say nothing Thursday on a report attributed to them Wednesday that one unsuccessful ransom delivery attempt had been made.

Bomb threats caused one airliner to make an unscheduled landing at Richmond, Va., to be searched, delayed two others on the ground in Flint, Mich., and Miami, Fla., and forced the evacuation of the Reno, Nev., airport. No bombs were found.

Despite TWA denials, New York police said Wednesday night a private jet that landed mysteriously in Atlanta Tuesday night carried the $2 million the plotters demanded but that "no actual turnover was made." The plane returned to New York four hours later. The company from which it was chartered in White Plains, N.Y., would not say where it had been or what it carried.

TWA Chairman Charles C.

Tillinghast Jr. refused to discuss the case with newsmen at a dinner Wednesday night. "It would only prejudice our position to say what we know or what we are doing," he said.

Investigators continued to work on the theory that the bombs were planted by one or more persons who were present or former airlines industry employees because of their obvious intimate knowledge of airline operations.

Commenting on the Las Vegas blast, a TWA spokesman said, "Whoever put it on the airplane had to know his way around the industry. He would have to know a considerable amount about the aircraft."

Charles Wyre, TWA general manager in Las Vegas, said the plane had been searched in New York after the bomb was found aboard the first plane Tuesday, and searched again after it arrived in Las Vegas.

Columnist Says Kleindienst Unfit to Be Atty. General

By TOM SEPPY

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Columnist Jack Anderson told Senate investigators today that Richard G. Kleindienst is unfit to be attorney general because he is not a "man who understands the law and respects the truth."

Despite his disclaimers, acting Atty. Gen. Kleindienst played a major role in settlement of three antitrust suits against the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., Anderson testified to the Judiciary Committee.

As a result of columns written by Anderson last week, the committee is taking new testimony relating to Kleindienst's nomination to be attorney general.

"There has been a concerted effort to conceal the truth about ITT's settlement of its antitrust battle with the Justice Department," Anderson said in a statement prepared for the committee. This effort began before we published our first column on the subject and has continued without interruption

"The public record on this episode is blotted with falsehood. The aura of scandal hangs over the whole matter. It will not be dispelled merely by the self-serving disclaimers of present and former members of the (Nixon) administration and officials of ITT," Anderson said.

Anderson's columns, based on a memorandum attributed to ITT lobbyist Dita D. Beard, suggested that the Justice Department agreement to settle the suits against ITT was linked to the conglomerate's

Good Weekend Weatherwise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
This weekend should be perfect in Arkansas from a weather standpoint.

A warming trend is expected to continue in the state through Friday and no precipitation is forecast through Sunday.

Temperatures were on the cool side Wednesday because of a cold high pressure center over the mid-south area. Highs ranged from 49 at Harrison to 62 at Texarkana.

Highs today should be in the 60s and low 70s with readings Friday in the upper 60s and 70s. The warmer temperatures will result as a high pressure center in Illinois moves eastward, permitting a return of southerly winds to the state. Highs Saturday and Sunday should be in the low to mid 70s north and upper 70s south.

Voter Registration Plan Would Topple Barriers

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is considering the fate of a major national voter-registration bill intended to knock down voting barriers for millions but besieged by arguments it would lead to widespread fraud.

The bill would set up the registration of all potential and eligible voters through a postcard system supervised by the U.S. Census Bureau.

A band of senators led by Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., is attempting to refer the legislation to the Senate Judiciary Committee, where it would be considered likely to disappear—perhaps permanently.

In its present form, the bill was shaped by the Senate Post Office Committee, which has jurisdiction not over elections but rather the Census Bureau and the Postal Service.

That committee's chairman, Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., said the 47 million eligible Americans who did not vote in 1968 outnumbered the 43 million who did vote for President Nixon.

It is a simple administrative procedure to help potential voters register, McGee said.

The vast majority of those not registered, he said, "are largely those on the bottom end of the social and economic ladder in this country."

And he said this bloc is not voting as effectively as it did in the 1960s, before many registration laws were enacted as vot-

The Pattersons are members of the First United Methodist Church of Hope and he has served the Church as a member of the Administrative Board since 1968 and as a regular Sunday School teacher since 1966.

In making his announcement, Mr. Patterson stated "I have long had a desire to offer myself as a candidate for a public office. I have spent the greater portion of my life preparing myself for the judgment and maturity required to make the decisions necessary for a State Legislator. I am particularly interested in developing new legislation in the field of crime and delinquency. We have too long ignored the rights of the public to be safe from violence and crime and new laws are needed in this area. Another particular area of concern to me is in seeing that the citizens receive an honest dollars worth of government in exchange for their tax dollars. I feel there are many areas whereby we can expand services through better planning and use of our tax moneys rather than by simply placing higher taxes on the working citizens who bear the greater share of cost of any improvements which are made. If elected your State Representative, I pledge myself to conduct myself in a way in which each citizen of Hempstead County can be proud and will endeavor to do my best to represent Hempstead County and its citizens in a fair and impartial manner. I welcome your views and sincerely solicit your vote and support. Thank you."

Speaks for Ozarks Regional Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Wednesday the Ozarks Regional Commission needed more money if the region it serves is to realize the commission's full potential.

Bumpers testified before a House Public Works subcommittee.

He said the Ozarks Regional Commission was a proper vehicle to erase the "economic bondage" of the Ozarks area, but that it and other such commissions "border on a cruel hoax" without adequate funding.

Bumpers told the subcommittee that the commission had failed to meet rising hopes that the region's economic deficiencies will be overcome. Inadequate funding is the reason, he said.

"If we are to realize the full potential of our Ozarks land and people, we must have the funds necessary to implement our plan," he said.

The governor, state co-chairman of the Ozarks Commission, said the agency had done an outstanding job of planning and analyses, developing a plan defining the region's problems and telling it how to spend the money to solve them.

He said if the Ozarks Commission and the four other similar Title V commissions estab-

Welfare Investigation

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock television station KARK reported Wednesday night that Sen. Russell Long, D-La., had asked the U.S. Justice Department to investigate operations of the state Social Services Division.

Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he had written to the U.S. attorney general requesting that the Justice Department investigate the welfare situation in Arkansas. The investigation reportedly will center around Ivan Smith, chief attorney for the Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services, Long said.

Smith was indicted by the Leno County Grand Jury last month on 25 counts of being an accessory after the fact of alleged fraud in the obtaining of food stamps.

Smith's indictment stemmed from what the Grand Jury called his failure to cooperate with Pros. Atty. Sam Weems of the 17th Judicial District in Weems' investigation of food stamp cases.

Long, whose committee is working on a welfare reform bill, said the committee wanted the Justice Department to see "if that is not also a violation of federal law."

Long's letter said there appeared to have been a "laxity" on the part of Smith to cooperate with Weems in his investigation. The letter said it appeared Smith had knowledge of fair and obsolete requirements.

The bill is likely to undergo the tests of several votes on amendments.

In its present form it would have these effects:

—A voter-registration administration would be set up in the Census Bureau, which would prepare postcards for all households.

—The postcards would include a registration form which would be mailed to election authorities in the states.

—Residence requirements would be limited to 30 days before each election.

—The postcard registration would apply to all national elections only—that is voting for president and vice president, members of the U.S. Senate and House.

—States would retain any local laws pertaining to avoidance of registrants but could seek additional help from the federal government if needed.

lished by Congress are to meet even the most basic needs, the nation must take the billion-dollar commitment to them that it has made to the Appalachia region.

The Ozarks region — consisting of 44 counties of Arkansas and portions of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri — will need about $66 million alone to implement its plan for the next fiscal year, Bumpers said.

He said that in recent years, Arkansas had averaged just under $2 million a year in program impact funds and the region as a whole had averaged $8 million.

Paris Unions Stage Kidnaping Protest

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — White-collar unions called a two-hour strike across France today to protest the Maoist kidnaping of an automobile executive, and the Communist party joined the chorus condemning the abduction.

Young extremists snatched 63-year-old Robert Nogrette as he left his home in a Paris suburb Wednesday. They claimed he hired "flying squads of killers" at the Renault motor company's Billancourt plant, where a company agent killed a young Maoist during a demonstration two weeks ago.

In communiques issued through a left-wing news agency, the kidnapers demanded that demonstrators jailed after the Billancourt battle be freed, that those fired as a result of the fray be rehired and that Maoists be allowed to hold a "free workers' meeting at the Billancourt plant today "without riot police ... or a single supervisor."

The abductors pledged to follow decisions reached by the meeting, implying that Nogrette would be freed if the workers agreed.

Nogrette, described by the state-owned auto company as a middle-level personnel officer, sent his wife a recorded message saying he was being treated well.

"I am very much at ease with the young masked people," he said. "We talk animatedly of one thing and another. They are taking very good care of me. Don't worry. Everything is going all right and everything will turn out all right."

The kidnapers said they were members of the Pierre Overney cell of the New People's Resistance, named for the 23-year-old worker killed Feb. 25 at the Billancourt plant. The security agent who shot him, Jean-Antoine Tramonin, 37, has been jailed on a homicide charge.

The long-tressed singer told newsmen earlier in the week that the bride he married before 20 million viewers on NBC's "Tonight" show had left him after he went through the fortune he made with falsetto versions of such old favorites as "Tiptoe Through the Tulips."

FDA Ruling May Bring Refunds

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is preparing a one-two regulatory punch that could send consumers streaming to toy stores for a small fortune in refunds.

The controversy pits lawyer against lawyer within the FDA, and threatens to invite a lawsuit no matter which camp prevails.

The fight revolves around a soon-to-be-published regulation reducing the maximum amount of lead allowed in paint on toys and children's furniture, to be followed within a few weeks by a revived proposal guaranteeing consumer refunds for toys and household chemicals banned as hazardous substances.

In effect, the lead-paint regulation could force toy manufacturers and importers to buy back most painted toys now in American homes.

"It's fantastic," said an FDA lawyer familiar with both issues. "The ramifications could be unbelievable. Millions and millions of dollars are involved."

The key question is whether there will be a retroactive time cutoff for refunds.

FDA sources said the paint regulation will attempt to set a precedent by allowing refunds only for items purchased after its effective date. That could be expected to draw challenges from consumers.

But a harder line is said to be prevailing on the refund regulation. Malcolm W. Jensen, director of the FDA's Bureau of Product Safety, favors refunds "back to the beginning of time," without regard to when a toy was manufactured and when it was banned. That almost certainly would provoke a court suit by the toy industry.

The law orders repurchases of any banned hazardous article or substance "whether or not it was such at the time of its sale."

Jensen said, "Congress seems clearly to say, 'Forget when it was made and the state of the art when it was made. Require buy-back even if the manufacturer couldn't have avoided the problem at that time.'"

Fourteen months ago the FDA proposed a refund regulation but dropped it in the face of an orchestrated attack by toy makers and little organized support from consumers.

The final lead-paint regulation is expected to cut the present 1-per-cent level to .5 per cent or lower.

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes attacked in North Vietnam for the eighth successive day Wednesday, the carrier Kitty Hawk rejoined the Indochina air as the 7th Fleet's fourth flattop, and South Vietnamese pilots claimed two enemy tanks and a truck in attacks today.

The U.S. Command also announced that an Air Force F4 Phantom was shot down Tuesday while attacking the Ho Chi Minh supply trail in southern Laos, and the two fliers are missing. The command said the announcement was withheld two days because of a search was in progress.

The command said Air Force F4 Phantoms on Wednesday bombed two antiaircraft batteries about a mile apart in the northern or North Vietnamese half of the demilitarized zone and a third one about 40 miles north of the DMZ after they fired on U.S. reconnaissance planes.

The command said results of the strikes were not known, but there was no damage to U.S. planes. This brought the total of U.S. attacks on antiaircraft defenses in North Vietnam to 23 since March 1 and 90 this year. Meanwhile, U.S. B52s bombed enemy positions in South Vietnam, 31 miles southwest of Da Nang and in the central highlands.

South Vietnamese spokesmen at Pleiku said an observation plane spotted one tank and a truck in Cambodia moving toward the Ben Het border camp in the central highlands this morning. They said South Vietnamese bombers destroyed both tank and truck and killed five North Vietnamese.

About two hours later, the spokesman continued, a column of six tanks was spotted in the same general area. Again the South Vietnamese attacked, and pilots reported one tank destroyed.

Navy spokesmen said planes from the 80,000-ton Kitty Hawk began operations this morning against the enemy supply lines.

The 7th Fleet was reduced to three carriers in November 1970 as part of the general cutback of U.S. forces in the Western Pacific. The Kitty Hawk had been scheduled to return to Vietnam next month, but she was rushed from the West Coast a month ahead of schedule because U.S. officials were expecting a big North Vietnamese offensive in late February. The offensive hasn't materialized.

On the ground, Viet Cong troops apparently overran a government militia outpost in the southern Mekong Delta. Field reports said two government soldiers were dead and 15 were missing.

The South Vietnamese also reported that saboteurs set off an explosive charge in Qui Nhon harbor, on the central coast, sinking two patrol boats.

Thornton Not for Amnesty

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ray Thornton, a candidate for Congress in the 4th District, said Wednesday night that he does not favor amnesty for draft evaders.

"The situation should not be considered until the (Vietnam) war is over and until our troops are back home," Thornton said. He appeared on KARK-TV's Challenge 72 program, taped for showing Sunday.

Asked to give his position on busing, he said, "I am a strong believer in children attending their neighborhood schools." Then he predicted there would be "a means to achieve quality education" for all without transportation of children.

Thornton then was asked if he would vote for a proposed constitutional amendment to outlaw busing and he said, finally, "I don't know."

Amnesty and busing are subjects almost certain to be handled by Congress within the next year.

Grow Up, Little Girl

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:
I've been married seven months and I'm six months pregnant. My husband has a well-paying job but sometimes has to go out of town overnight.

I always stay with my mother when he's away, but all she does is nag and gripe and make me miserable. She says he's probably with other girls, and I made a mistake marrying him, but I know he isn't and I didn't. We live in a good neighborhood and my husband has asked the lady next door to watch out for me but I've never stayed alone.

How can I keep my mother quiet during these times? —
WORRIED AND HASSLED
Dear W and H:

A manless house creaks and groans a lot at night, true, but isn't this preferable to a nagging mother? (And she's not likely to change.)
You're a big girl now. So learn to make it on your own—when your husband isn't home.

HELEN
DEAR WORRIED:
... Or get a girl friend to stay with you. ... Or ask to sleep on your neighbor's couch until you get up nerve enough to stay alone. Don't make your husband's mother-in-law problem worse by running home to her all the time! —SUE

DEAR RAP:
This problem has eaten my heart for years. My husband and I conceived our oldest son out of wedlock. He is now in his teens and is bound to check his birthdate against our anniversary date before long.

We're a very happy family, have two other children, and we all love each other very much. We go to church regularly and know God has forgiven us, but how can we tell our son? —T.Y.
DEAR T.:
I suspect your teenage son already knows, and wonders why you avoid the subject of his early appearance. Young people these days aren't nearly so concerned over marriage-vs.-birth dates as they are over whether they are truly loved and wanted in a happily secure family.

Why not level with him and find out for yourselves, at the same time letting him know that ALL premature parents don't go to build great marriages: You were the lucky ones! —HELEN
DEAR T.:
How do you tell him?—Honestly, matter-of-factly, with emphasis on how much you all love each other. Don't make a big conference table thing of it—and never say you're sorry. That would imply his forgotten over long ago.

Don't delay! This is no big problem unless you try to hide it. —SUE
DEAR HELEN AND SUE:
I need help. I always tell boys my personal problems. They listen a little and then we go parking or to an old building, and I let them do whatever they want. I'm only 13, and I just can't stop myself. I can't say "No" —HATE MYSELF
Dear H.M.:
Your signature explains it: hate yourself, so you try to buy affection. Honey, you're paying much too high a price for a little listening—especially when the boys don't even hear you.

Real friends listen because they care about you. You can find them if you let an understanding adult guide you out of this mess. A neighborhood youth counselor, perhaps.

DEAR H.:
Maybe you're in love with "love," and you think sex is all there is to it. Getting straight is like going on a diet: you must be really determined or you'll never succeed. Are you? Prove it by leveling with an older person. —SUE

Victory Club Meets

A lovely spring bouquet of daffodils decorated the living room when the Victory Extension Homemakers Club met in the home of Mrs. E.C. Calhoun on Wednesday, March 1. Attending were 12 members and 3 guests, Mrs. Carroll Rowe, Mrs. Bobby Calhoun and Mrs. Jimmy Rowe.

The opening songs, "My Wild Irish Rose" and "The More We Get Together," were led by Mrs. Vince Willett. Mrs. E.C. Calhoun gave the devotion from John 14. The leaders' report on "Money-saving Home Furnishing Ideas" was given by Mrs. Eugene Collins and Mrs. L.J. Hampton.

Roll call was answered with "An inexpensive decorating idea." Mrs. Cecil Smith read a poem on the making or breaking of an Extension Homemakers Club. After a short business meeting, the drawing for the door prize was won by Mrs. Nina McCorkle. The meeting was adjourned with the Homemakers Prayer.

Refreshments were served from an attractive table of tasty tidbits surrounding the large bowl of orange sherbet punch. The April meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Vince Willett.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Impressionists are fun—in moderation. If nothing else, ABC's "Kopcats," which comes on every other Wednesday, has been demonstrating the evil of excess.

A full hour of even the most talented quintet of mimics can become a bit of a bore. Marilyn Michaels, for instance, does a beautifully wicked imitation of Barbra Streisand, but please not every fortnight.

The fun for the viewer this week was watching Miss Michaels take a stab, and a good one, at imitating Jean Stapleton's Edith Bunker. But George Kirby, who does marvelous impressions of Ella Fitzgerald and Louis Armstrong, just couldn't pull off Carroll O'Connor's Archie Bunker.

Rich Little and Miss Michaels emerge as the stellar talents of the series. He turned in adroit and devastating imitations of Carol Channing and Robert Goulet and Marilyn's Dinah Shore, complete with characteristic gestures, was as precise as her Judy Garland bit.

Still there just isn't enough in the one-hour show for a satisfying 60 minutes.

"Medical Center" and "Mannix" on CBS wound up their seasons with whimpers instead of bangs. Neither had an episode that was up to the standards set during the earlier part of the season.

"Medical Center" opened dramatically with a rape case, and before the woman died, police had arrested the fiancé of a woman doctor of hero Joe Gannon's staff.

The program rambled on, with surgery, emotional crises on the part of the woman doctor and the victim's husband. It finally closed when the stalwart suspect collapsed into an incoherent mental case—a standard cop-out when no other solution is in sight.

"Mannix," usually a brisk action show, this time was done largely in slow motion and trick photography, efforts to show the intrepid detective's mental condition. He was staggering around, apparently on a bad trip from a paranoia-inducing drug while he was trying to find the villain who was trying to kill him.

Mike Connors stumbled around for most of the hour, breathing heavily and mugging madly, as the plot moved slowly to an improbable finish.

Premature Says AM&N

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas AM&N College Athletic Committee said Wednesday that public officials' remarks about an incident Monday night at the NAIA District 17 basketball playoffs in Arkadelphia were "premature and without foundation."

The committee issued the statement after meeting at AM&N in the wake of a disturbance that left 15 persons injured.

The disturbance followed the loss by AM&N to Southern State College in the NAIA District 17 playoffs.

The committee statement made reference to remarks, as quoted by news media, of Police Chief Marvin Miller, SSC President Imon Bruce and Pros. Atty. W.H. Arnold of Arkadelphia.

The remarks generally indicated that the officials had been given reason to believe that AM&N students were behind the disruption.

However, the committee said, the investigation by the committee "at this point does not indicate that AM&N students and/or fans were totally responsible for the unfortunate incident that took place," the committee statement said.

A spokesman for the committee said the Wednesday meeting involved a discussion of the reports carried by various news media in connection with the disruption.

Ouachita Is Victorious

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Ouachita Baptist University defeated Southern State 62-55 in the NAIA District 17 playoffs here Wednesday to advance to the national NAIA tournament.

Ouachita will begin playing in the national tournament at Kansas City next Monday.

The Tigers led all the way but the Muleriders threatened to take the lead several times. The Tigers jumped into an early 8-0 advantage but with 9:23 left in the first half, SSC had closed the gap to 15-14. The Tigers, however, pulled away to lead 32-26 at halftime.

After being behind by 10 points with 10:52 left in the game, Southern State cut the deficit to two points with 4:19 left, but Ouachita met the challenge and Jim Hamilton dropped in two free throws and Tommy Patterson connected on a 15-foot jumper to push the Tigers out of range to stay.

Patterson hit 20 points for the Tigers and Hamilton and Bill Hodges added 14 each. James Armstrong led SSC with 15 points and Al Flanagan netted 13.

Mountain Home pulled into a tie early in the third quarter and the Bombers eased out to a four-point lead, but Warren bounced back to tie the score at 42-42 going into the final quarter.

Warren gradually built up a six-point lead with 2:17 left and held on for the victory.

High scorer for Warren was Jerry Watts with 23 points. Ronald Huber pitched in 20 points for Mountain Home.

An eight-point spurt by Andrew Pitts helped Magnolia pull away from Hot Springs Lakeside and coast to victory.

Pitts finished the game with 19 points, which was high for Magnolia. Ken Newsom and Cliff Brown scored 10 points each to lead Lakeside.

Management Takes Baseball Spotlight

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer Management took the play away from the players in baseball Wednesday.

Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland A's, invoked the controversial reserve clause on holdout pitcher Vida Blue.

Blue, who made $14,500 last year and has been asking $92,000, responded to Finley's act through his attorney, Robert Gerst.

"Blue won't sign the contract," said Gerst. "Vida's willing to play this year for $50,000—so long as he does not have to sign a contract and is a free agent at the end of the year."

The reserve clause, under attack in the Curt Flood suit filed in 1969, binds a player to a team for one year after his contract expires. The club is required to pay the athlete at least 80 per cent of his prior year's salary.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., Devine's inaction to pull the same reserve clause on Torre raised eyebrows.

The Cardinal general manager had invoked the clause against holdouts Ted Simmons, a catcher, pitcher Jerry Reuss and first baseman Bob Burda earlier in the week.

There was no immediate explanation from management on why Devine neglected to send Torre a letter of renewal.

Torre, last year's Most Valuable Player in the National League, made about $100,000 last season and is holding out for $50,000 more. The All-Star third baseman is the only Cardinal absentee from camp.

Another major off-the-field matter involved Nick Mileti, who hopes to buy the Indians from Vernon Skouffer.

Representatives of the 12 American League clubs met for seven hours in Sarasota, Fla., but postponed until March 22 a decision on the proposed $9 million sale.

Mileti, owner of the Cleveland Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association and the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League, heads a group of five Cleveland businessmen who wish to keep the Indians' franchise in the city.

In Wednesday's exhibition games, the San Francisco Giants reached Chicago Cubs' ace Ferguson Jenkins for five runs in the first two innings and went on to a 10-8 triumph; Jay Johnstone hit a grand slam home run in the 14th inning, helping the Chicago White Sox beat the Boston Red Sox 11-7; Minnesota ripped into Steve Blass for three runs in both the second and third innings for a 7-3 triumph over Pittsburgh; Texas got four runs in the first two innings off New York starter Fritz Peterson and beat the Yankees 6-2 and Dave Schneck singled home the winning run in the 12th inning as the New York Mets edged the Detroit Tigers 4-3.

What plans Gaillard did make were to stop Mike Stewart, Santa Clara's great percentage shooter. A variety of defenses held him to 18 points on a poor (for him) 7-of-15 shooting night.

With 58 seconds to go, Santa Clara moved to within three points of the Dons at 55-52.

But in the next 50 seconds, John Burks delivered two free throws, threw a 50-foot pass to Phil Smith for another score and then made two more free throws to put San Francisco out of danger, 61-52.

Kentucky and Tennessee settle things tonight in the Southeastern Conference. The winner will gain a berth in the NCAA's Midwest regionals.

The Atlantic Coast Conference begins its championship playoff with a tripleheader today. Maryland plays Clemson, Virginia takes on Wake Forest and North Carolina State meets Duke.

The plus is a hungry attitude. The minus is the long-gone stability of 1971.

"We're going to the field the first 10 days and just look at people at a lot of different positions," says ASU Coach Bill Davidson. "We're going to try to find our best 22 athletes and get them in the ball game. Offensively, I don't think I could say who would be playing at any position."

Last year, Davidson began spring practice with the likes of James Hamilton, Calvin Harrell, Bill Phillips, Wayne Dorton, Dennis Meyer, Steve Lockhart, Donnie Beshears, Butch Murray and Terry Whiting. All are gone.

"Last year was supposed to have been our year," Davidson said. "I think we went into spring practice knowing who was going to play. No doubt about it, I think we were complacent about it."

The Indians disappointed with a 4-4-1 record.

"We weren't a bad football until the last two games," he said. "Up until then, we had lost one game by a touchdown and one game by one point."

He says the fact that almost every position is wide open should make for a good spring practice.

"This makes for a healthy attitude," he said. "As far as the players are concerned, they can see the coach is trying to get them in the ball game."

"We're going to the field and we really don't know who is going to play," Davidson said. "You have to be concerned about this. This group has been called a 'bunch of rags' and what's left and that kind of philosophy."

"Really, there are some real fine young kids," he said. "This group has the same thing last year's group did earlier—a hungry attitude. They're going to the field knowing there's going to be a fight for a spot. With that kind of enthusiasm, it should be a real interesting spring."

We've got to look at our own situation and be realistic," he said. "This should be a rebuilding year. We've only got five seniors on the roster. However, we've had a tremendous recruiting season and some of these people will be playing for us next year."

Davidson said end Dave Muckensturm, tackle Cleveland Barfield and halfback Craig Johnson appeared to be set on defense.

He said he plans to look at three defensive backs—Julius Hollimon, Ed Harris and David Mitchell—on offense.

He also plans to give defensive lineman a shot at offense and vice versa.

Four players are in the running at quarterback—Steve Burks, Jack Ross, James Flynn and John Ryan.

"This may be the No. 1 race because all four are athletes," Davidson said. "They're all pretty good throwers and all have decent running ability."

who scored 26.

The season had come down to one playoff match after Morehead stopped Western Kentucky in the first game of the two-day playoff Tuesday night.

The Colonels, led by Bryant and Charlie Mitchell, who scored a game-high 28 points, took command late in the first half. A 16-2 scoring burst with six minutes left put it away.

Eastern Kentucky thus completed first-round pairings in the NCAA post-season playoff and will face Florida State in a Midwest regional game Saturday.

San Francisco, by virtue of its WCAC championship, has drawn a bye in the first round and will meet the winner of the Long Beach State-Brigham Young game in the West.

"I don't even want to think about that game in Provo, Utah," said Coach Bob Gaillard of San Francisco. "I had made no plans past the game with him," Chuck Courtney said, "and the man hit one crooked shot, one shot in 36 holes that wasn't dead on the flag."

Snead, winner of 84 official events—some independent statisticians list him with as many as 130 titles—admits that putting is his biggest problem now. He's gone to a sidesaddle style, facing the hole with the club just outside his right toe and the right hand far down the shaft.

"You're just putting with the right hand that way," he said. "You've got one chance to go wrong that way. With two hands you've got two chances."

And—even though now in his 40th year as a pro—the familiar figure in the brightly-branded straw hat ranked as a strong factor in today's opening round in the $150,000 Florida Citrus Open.

"I'm scraping the bottom of the barrel," Snead disclaimed in his West Virginia drawl. "I'm just tryin' to get by on experience now."

And that he has. Experience. For example, he turned pro when Arnold Palmer was a three-year-old toddler in Latrobe, Pa., Sammy Baugh was a high school football star in Texas, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig were tearing things up for the Yankees, Joe Louis was emerging from the Golden Glove ranks in Detroit.

"I'm about 10 yards shorter with every club than I used to be," he said. "And my nerves aren't so good."

But the game and the nerves were good enough to make a serious run for the title in last week's rain-delayed event. He held a share of the lead as late as the 13th hole of the final round. And he wound up fourth, just three strokes back, in a field that included Nicklaus, Trevino, Gary Player of South Africa, Tony Jacklin of England and most of this year's winners.

"I played two rounds with him," Chuck Courtney said, "and the man hit one crooked shot, one shot in 36 holes that wasn't dead on the flag."

Snead, winner of 84 official events—some independent statisticians list him with as many as 130 titles—admits that putting is his biggest problem now. He's gone to a sidesaddle style, facing the hole with the club just outside his right toe and the right hand far down the shaft.

"You're just putting with the right hand that way," he said. "You've got one chance to go wrong that way. With two hands you've got two chances."

And—even though now in his 40th year as a pro—the familiar figure in the brightly-branded straw hat ranked as a strong factor in today's opening round in the $150,000 Florida Citrus Open.

"I'm scraping the bottom of the barrel," Snead disclaimed in his West Virginia drawl. "I'm just tryin' to get by on experience now."

And that he has. Experience. For example, he turned pro when Arnold Palmer was a three-year-old toddler in Latrobe, Pa., Sammy Baugh was a high school football star in Texas, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig were tearing things up for the Yankees, Joe Louis was emerging from the Golden Glove ranks in Detroit.

"I'm about 10 yards shorter with every club than I used to be," he said. "And my nerves aren't so good."

But the game and the nerves were good enough to make a serious run for the title in last week's rain-delayed event. He held a share of the lead as late as the 13th hole of the final round. And he wound up fourth, just three strokes back, in a field that included Nicklaus, Trevino, Gary Player of South Africa, Tony Jacklin of England and most of this year's winners.

Another Presidential Aspirant Announces

The latest entrant in the Democratic presidential race, former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, says he was compelled to run despite the odds because he isn't satisfied that any of the other candidates "will do what needs to be done."

The 54-year-old president of Duke University told a news conference in Durham Wednesday: "There comes a time in a man's life, despite the odds, when he is compelled to do what he thinks should be done, be it personal, public or political. That time has come for me."

Sanford gained a reputation during his term as governor from 1961-65 as a Southern progressive who instituted a number of reforms and innovations in the state educational system, including creation of special programs for gifted children, the poor and those interested in the arts.

He was considered a moderate on civil rights and helped establish the North Carolina Fund, a five-year experimental antipoverty project supported by the Ford Foundation.

Prohibited from seeking a second term, Sanford practiced law briefly before going to Duke to direct a comprehensive study of the potential role of state governments.

He remained active in politics, seconded the nomination of Hubert H. Humphrey at the 1968 Democratic National Convention and was considered a likely vice-presidential choice before Humphrey picked Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

Sanford was named president of Duke in 1969.

In other political developments, with the Florida primary less than a week away, most of the candidates were already campaigning in the Sunshine State or on their way south.

Sen. Humphrey, Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York and Republican Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio appeared together to address a meeting of the Humphrey said he plans to introduce legislation to make it a federal crime to kill or attempt to kill any policeman, fireman or prison guard.

Lindsay attacked Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, whose crime-control techniques of "lock them up; lock them out; keep them in their place" have been proved failures by history, the New York mayor said.

Ashbrook said he was very disappointed President Nixon returned from Peking with "nothing said about the traffic of drugs from Red China." The conservative congressman also proposed that people found guilty of crimes involving firearms receive an "automatic one-year sentence that cannot be set aside by a judge."

Things to Do Without

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things we could all do without:
Hotels with a daily rate higher than the doctor used to charge you for taking out your appendix.

Girls who lose a contact lens when you're halfway across a busy street and the light has just turned red.

The sound of a bus door slamming shut in your face after you've sprinted 50 yards and you're too winded to swear at the driver.

Trying to fix a hole in your pocket with a safety pin so you won't leave a trail of coins wherever you go.

The look of personal outrage on the faces of clerks when you buy a 10-cent package of mints and give them a $20 bill to change. After all, doesn't somebody have to change $20 bills in this world?

Waiting for an aspirin to take effect.
Having a straggly blonde with nicotine-stained fingers read your palm at a cocktail party.

Following in heavy traffic a car whose driver is struggling out of his coat because he feels too hot.

Being stopped at the entrance of an alley at midnight by a suspicious looking stranger and asked for a match.

Helping your 10-year-old daughter write an essay for her English class on "What Is an Oedipus Complex?"

Dreams in which you go to church naked—and thus can't drop any money in the collection plate.

Keeping a stamp collection for 30 years only to be told by a dealer at the end of that time that your entire hoard is worth less than the price of the albums that house it.

Figuring out just what kind of life you'll have to face if all you have to live on is your company's retirement income.

Making small talk with the athletic father of a pretty girl you have no intention of marrying.

Sitting next to your mother-in-law at a Broadway play which suddenly begins to flower with four-letter words.

Kidding a career gal about the women's liberation movement, and then learning later that her income is exactly twice yours.

Finding out, after a long study, that the only thing poisoning your environment is yourself.

From these and other nuisances, perils and predicaments, deliver us. Amen.

Says Pakistan Arms a Nonissue

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials say Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi raised a nonissue when she claimed the United States plans to rearm Pakistan.

"All of these decisions regarding arms continue to be left unmade," said one U.S. authority. "India's military is in high gear and they are not waiting for Soviet military aid."

"If we ever heard of a non-issue, this is it."

At a Calcutta political rally Tuesday, Mrs. Gandhi predicted the United States is going to rearm Pakistan. And she angrily denied a statement by Secretary of State William P. Rogers in his foreign-policy report to Congress that India must bear the main responsibility for the Indian-Pakistani war last December.

She said the war began because Pakistan attacked India. Indian authorities here and in New Delhi have been upset

NEW YORK (AP) — International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. can sell you a hotel room in Tunisia or a loaf of Wonder Bread at the corner market.

You can park your car in an ITT lot in Mexico City and you can make a telephone call over ITT equipment in Greece.

One of the world's biggest conglomerates, ITT has grown in 50 years from an international communications utility into a giant holding company with some 250 divisions, subsidiaries and industrial groups in about 80 countries around the globe.

ITT has splashed into the news lately following charges by columnist Jack Anderson that the Justice Department dropped legal action against it after the company pledged $400,000 to help defray expenses of the 1972 Republican National Convention. And on Wednesday ITT denied a report by another columnist, Victor Zorza, that it was working on a secret trade deal with the Soviet Union. But it said it planned to tell the Russians next month about its services and products.

The eighth biggest American manufacturer last year, ITT had a staggering list of operations ranging from wood pulp to toll booth equipment in addition to Sheraton hotels, Continental Bakin—the Wonder Bread firm—Avis rental cars and Levitt housing.

A relatively small portion of program."

Church said he was in India when reports came that a very small shipment of U.S. arms was being sent to Pakistan. Despite its small size, most Indians took this to mean that the United States was resuming the arming of Pakistan.

"I wish we would stop giving arms in the future to India, Pakistan and to Bangladesh where we have an opportunity to make a clean start," he said.

AN EXPENSIVE DOE
NASHVILLE (AP) — Four Overton County residents, one of them a woman, were fined $50 and costs each and jailed for 10 days as a result of an out-of-season deer slaying.

Assistant law enforcement chief Paul Strunk of the Tennessee Game and Fish Commission said the four were charged with the illegal possession of a doe, and violation of the "gun and light" law.

Their 1966 automobile and an automatic rifle with a scope were confiscated. The violations occurred in the Big Bottom section of Jackson County.

Pioneer Water Mill Nearing Completion

POINT LOOKOUT, Mo. (AP) — A pioneer water mill nearing completion at the School of the Ozarks features antique equipment collected from throughout Missouri and neighboring states.

Among the oldest and more spectacular artifacts are numerous massive wooden beams, moved to the site from Carthage, Mo., where they were removed from a Morrow Milling Co. plant in 1966.

The history of the beams—some measuring 13, others 10 inches square—predates by at least 25 years the 20th Century in Carthage; an inscription carved into one of them is evidence they predate their use in Carthage by perhaps another half century or more.

The inscription reads, "Nov. 14, 1803." There were no mills nor millers in the Southwest Missouri area earlier than 1830-35 when the first white settlers arrived.

The Carthage beams were given to W. D. Cameron, retired miller who is co-ordinating the Point Lookout project, by Tom Morrow, vice president and treasurer of the Morrow Milling Co., formerly the Norris Grain Co. Cameron, a longtime friend of the Morrrows, received the timbers while touring the region in search of pioneer equipment for the Mill of the Ozarks.

A reference apparently was made to the beams in 1883 by a county historian who, in describing construction of a pioneer mill erected in 1874 by Henry C. Cowgill, said it was "constructed of very heavy timbers."

The new mill, expected to be completed sometime in the spring, will be 30 by 80 feet at the base and three stories tall. Construction is of stone for the first story and rough-cut fireproofed siding for upper stories.

The Carthage beams, being used for the frame, are being mortised and pegged in the tradition of the early period when iron fasteners were rare.

The mill is being financed with the aid of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Edwards of Kansas City as a joint venture with the Ralph Foster Museum on the college campus. The builder, Harding Wyman, is being assisted by students and Cameron, who has collected virtually all the basic materials.

Cameron has been attempting to collect some object—even if only a foundation stone—from every known mill in South Missouri for use in the new mill, which will be put to use by producing white and yellow cornmeal, whole wheat, rye, buckwheat and rice flour.

It will be operated with power supplied by runoff water from Lake Honor, activating a 12-foot overshot wheel and water turbine dating back from the early 1800s.

A PRENATAL STUDY HOUSTON (AP) — A Russian-born scientist has been awarded a $60,000 grant to study how unborn babies are affected by lack of oxygen.

Dr. Donald Rappoport, head of the Division of Molecular Biology at the University of Texas medical branch in Galveston, received the award from the United Cerebral Palsy Research and Education Foundation.

Oxygen deprivation in unborn and newborn infants is a leading cause of cerebral palsy, a disorder that now affects at least 750,000 persons in the United States.

Three Killed in Ireland Blast

BELFAST (AP) — A big explosion shattered a house in a Roman Catholic section of Belfast today, killing three people and injuring four. Police said they believed a gelignite bomb had exploded as men of the Irish Republican Army were priming the charge.

Security forces closed off the area of the Lower Falls enclave as they searched the wreckage of the four-room house. The section is an IRA stronghold.

The explosion raised to 268 the known death toll in 31 months of communal warfare in Northern Ireland.

Meanwhile, Protestant workers called for a four-hour strike and electricity cutoff today to protest terrorist violence and concessions to the Catholic minority which the British government is considering.

"We've just about taken enough," said William Hull, an organizer of the Loyalist Association of Workers.

"I warn the politicians here and in London that we will bring the country to a complete halt if any political moves are taken that will alter our constitution."

Hull did not say how many workers he expected to heed his organization's call. But he predicted 4,000 to 5,000 workers in electric power plants would throw the switches from 1 to 5 p.m.

"This will mean there will be no juice for factories at all so they won't be able to work even if they want to," he said.

The organizer said his group wants revival of the B-Special Constabulary, a Protestant vigilante force disbanded in 1969 as a concession to the Catholics; restoration of mandatory life imprisonment for anyone involved in a bombing, and no political settlement affecting the status of the Protestants, who dominate political and economic life in Northern Ireland.

Concessions on Auto Emissions

By G. DAVID WALLACE

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency will make two concessions to help the automobile industry meet the tough exhaust-pollution standards due for 1975.

The concessions come in the wake of manufacturers' pleas for a one-year reprieve from the standards spelled out in the 1970 Clean Air Act, which decreed a 90-percent cut in auto pollutants.

The latest move was spelled out in a letter from EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus to Chrysler Corp., with copies distributed to other automakers. The letter was dated Feb. 8, about four weeks after 50 government and industry officials met at the Western White House to discuss the standards.

In the letter, Ruckelshaus suggested easing regulations on a catalytic-converter system, a filtering method, and permitting automakers to measure average emission levels rather than guaranteeing that every new car meets standards.

Softening the standard on the converter system has been identified in House hearings as one of the subjects discussed at the San Clemente meeting.

Ruckelshaus' office denied that the San Clemente meeting was related to the Feb. 8 letter.

But Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., called the San Clemente conference "the opening of a concerted and organized drive to weaken the Clean Air Act."

The catalytic-converter system filters exhaust gas through metal, such as platinum, to strain out harmful elements.

The new stipulation, now being worked into a proposed EPA regulation, would permit automakers to replace the metallic catalyst at intervals rather than equip cars with a catalyst designed to last 50,000 miles.

Ruckelshaus' other proposal would relieve automakers from assuring that every car coming off the assembly line emits no more than the legal levels of

Wants Funds for Pollution

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Officials of the International Paper Co. at Pine Bluff asked the Pine Bluff City Council Wednesday to call an Act 9 bond election so bonds could be issued to finance installation of pollution control equipment at the company's Pine Bluff plant.

The equipment, which officials said included odor control devices, solid waste elimination equipment and a sludge oxidation system, will cost about $4.3 million.

Mayor Austin Franks indicated the council would cooperate with the request to hold an election within 30 days.

hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and oxides of nitrogen.

Instead, Ruckelshaus has told the auto makers, EPA will propose permitting the emissions from various cars to be averaged within limits not yet specified. If one car, for example, emits one excess gram of hydrocarbons and another emits one gram less than the legal limit, both cars pass.

Ruckelshaus spelled out his position on the heels of a statement from a National Academy of Sciences panel which said that automakers could not possibly comply with the law by 1975 without the concessions. The panel was composed of academicians and technicians from outside the auto industry studying technological implications of the Clean Air Act.

The first "lounge flight" was logged Jan. 19, 1937 when a DC3 plane carried a full load of 14 passengers on a historic one-stop flight from Chicago to New York.

Fights in Florida

MIAMI (AP) — Public school officials disagree on whether the school busing issue is behind a rash of racial battles which have flared in Florida during the past two weeks.

Authorities have reported fist fights and demonstrations at Jacksonville, Gainesville, Winter Garden and Key West.

"It appears that the situation will continue until March 14," said Duval County School Supt. Cecil Hardesty Wednesday after widespread racial fighting broke out at Jacksonville's Ribault High School.

Hardesty referred to the March 14th straw ballot on busing, and he blamed the unrest partly on "the things being said" about busing by the 14 candidates in next Tuesday's presidential primary.

State Rep. Ed. Trombetta of Fort Lauderdale charged that a straw poll on the March 14 ballot asking voters if they favor a constitutional amendment to ban busing is one of the main causes of racial friction in Florida schools.

"All it does is raise a red flag of emotionalism and bigotry in front of everyone's face," Trombetta said. "It could prove a great boon to militant blacks who could say, 'Now look what the white folks are doing.'"

However, some school officials say they doubt the busing debate could be the primary cause of racial tension.

"In my opinion," said associate commissioner James T. Campbell of the State Department of Education, "the trouble we've had is simply a continuation of what has been going on since the beginning of the school year. While debate over the antibusing proposal may have contributed to the problem, I have no evidence that this is so."

Campbell said he believes the major cause is fewer extracurricular activities available at schools since Christmas.

"During football season, the kids had many opportunities to let off steam and it drained off a lot of these difficulties. But since the Christmas holiday, there hasn't been these opportunities," he said.

Fair and Dry Over Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair and dry weather covered almost the entire nation today, with colder than normal temperatures in the eastern half of the country and warmer than normal readings in the West.

Light snow dusted upstate New York and New England, and flurries were scattered elsewhere in the Northeast. The only other precipitation was a scattering of showers along the Gulf Coast and spotty drizzle in the Pacific Northwest.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 74 at Needles, Calif., to 15 below zero at Pellston, Mich.

MRS. LORENE HAMILTON

BERTHA CARRIGAN

Mrs. Lorene Hamilton and Bertha Carrigan, employees of Hempstead Memorial Hospital, have successfully completed the hours required, and have passed the State Board examination to become qualified Licensed Practical Nurses.

The practical nurse program had its start in World War II. Many registered nurses of that time had joined the various services of our country, leaving few at home to care for the sick. Because of this situation, a program was begun in order to fill this area of need. Over the years, the education of the practical nurse has been improved and standardized. At present, one year of study is required in this area. Part of this time is spent at Red River Vocational Technical School and part in the clinical area of the hospitals. At the end of the year of training, the practical nurse is qualified to assume her role in nursing.

To become a practical nurse, a person must have a high school education or its equivalent, and be between the ages of 17 and 50. To date, Hempstead Memorial Hospital has offered clinical experience to twenty nine students. Fourteen of these are presently employed by this hospital. Practical nursing offers the ideal solution for those who wish to be nurses, but can not leave home for extended periods of time to do so.

To The Editor

This is your newspaper. Write to it. Address letters to: Editor The Star, P.O. Box 648, Hope, Ark. 71801. All letters must be signed, with address so you are identified to the newspaper staff, but if the character of the letter permits we will allow use of a pen-name in the publication, in which case you should add "Citizen," or some other word below your real name and address.

Pen-names are permitted when a letter deals only with issues. Direct attacks upon public officials, however, must bear the writer's name for publication.

Church And Schools

Editor the Star: The work of God is being done in the schools. The Church provided education at one time, in keeping with the Bible, emphasis on knowledge and because Jesus Christ stressed teaching.

In time and rightly, the public took over the major responsibility of education. Christians form much of the public. Therefore, they will consider the vote March 14th in the context of their call as the People of God. They will be faithful in meeting the challenge.

As Superintendent of the Hope District of the United Methodist Church, I ask all Methodist Churches to consider an annual donation to the School District, in lieu of taxes, because the Schools reach more youth more of the time, building character, than even the churches. I ask Pastors and Members to support Administrators, Teachers, and the School Board with their prayers and a constructive spirit, as well as by financial programs.

Survival Month

Editor the Star: The following article is by Donald W. Stone, President of the Arkansas Bankers Assn. and was printed in the March issue of Arkansas Bankers magazine.

As you can see, it is a most timely article and relates to our situation here in Hope concerning our school problems and our forthcoming industrial development.

I would appreciate you reprinting this article in your fine paper. Yours truly,

MITCHELL LaGRONE

President's Message

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their schools. Since school elections are in March, we might call March "Education Month." Depending on what we do or don't do with our schools, we might as well call it "Survival Month." It might mark the beginning of a return to reason in education. It might mark the beginning of the end of this nation. The difference may be up to you.

Our industrial development, and therefore economic development, is dependent in large part on our educational system. The industrial prospect is thinking about moving a plant from Chicago to your town does not move his key people from Chicago. His plant manager may live in Northpark. His assistant manager may move from Englewood. These communities are near the same size as yours or mine, but they are communities with highly developed educational systems both public and private. When the industrialist is considering uprooting the family of a key man in his organization, he wants to see your school system. Have you driven by your schools lately? Did you go to school in those buildings 20 or 30 or 40 years ago?

"It's hard to examine the economics of education when you are so close to the subject. Since we can't view Arkansas or the United States from a distance, I would like for us to think for a moment about the similarities and differences of two other nations—Great Britain and Japan. The similarities are amazing."

"They are both great island nations, and although one was a winner and one was a loser in World War II, both were wrecked by war. Both have been heavily supported by the United States."

"Both nations cannot grow enough food to feed their own people. They must import food. Therefore, their entire economy is geared to the admonition—export or die. The population density is amazingly similar—about 600 people per square mile. Why, with all these similarities, are there such great differences in some respects?"

"Looking at the gross national product of the two nations in the first ten years after the war, Great Britain grew 70 per cent, Japan grew 300 per cent. Great Britain was the largest ship builder in the world... now it's Japan. Great Britain has always been a large producer of crude steel, but now Japan produces twice as much steel. Great Britain used to be the third largest automobile producer... now it's Japan and they're still growing."

"I believe that one of the key reasons for these great differences is education. Of the total population of the two nations, those who complete high school amount to 5 per cent in Great Britain and 70 per cent in Japan. In Great Britain one student out of 24 goes on to college... in Japan, it's one out of seven. Business executives with college degrees amount to 36 per cent for Great Britain and 80 per cent for Japan. It seems to me that this gives us ample indication that education has tremendous economic value."

"I mentioned education for survival. If we believe in our democracy, if we believe in our republic of elected representatives, if we believe in government by self determination of our people, then we must educate our people. People are voters. With education they cannot be hoodwinked by unscrupulous politicians. With education they will not elect labor leaders who are hoodlums and racketeers. With education they will not call for mob rule. With education they will make the right decisions."

"Now is the time for us to find and support reasonable candidates for our school boards. If an additional tax is needed to support our schools, vote for it and encourage other people to vote for it also. If a bond issue is needed to build new school buildings, give that issue all the support that you can. It is time to return to the age of reason and to return our schools to their primary purpose—education."

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Heartbeat Heard Through Ear

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like to know what it can be that makes me hear my heart beat through my right ear. This condition is almost driving me crazy, because it happens every time I am lying down trying to get to sleep. I have gone to the Eye, Ear & Throat Clinic, but they can't find anything wrong with my ears.

Dear Reader: It is perfectly normal. Many people can lie on their side and hear their heart beat. I suppose that a person who is more conscious and aware of his body is more apt to hear his heart beat and, of course, if the heart beats very frequently this is a factor.

Actually, the force of the heart beat is much greater than most people realize. In the old-fashioned spring beds you could watch the bed move in relationship to the heart beat. There is even one device, the ballistocardiogram, which has been designed to take advantage of the fact that the body vibrates with each heart beat. These instruments record the actual oscillations of the whole body that occurs with each beat. There are many variations of these machines, but they are based on the vibrations and devices that are placed on the chest. But they all attest to the fact that the mechanical force of the heart beat can cause the entire body to vibrate. I think the best thing I can tell you is just to stop worrying about it. It hasn't anything to do with your ears.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Could you tell me why nitroglycerin is prescribed five minutes before a meal? Also what is tincture of belladonna for?

Dear Reader—Nitroglycerin tablets are commonly used to relieve chest pain caused by heart disease (angina pectoris). They can also cause relaxation of the muscles in the esophagus. I would guess, however, that the reason the nitroglycerin is being given before meals is to prevent any pain or difficulty from the heart. Some people who have chest pain after eating because of the heart can be successfully treated this way. The tablet before the meal prevents the chest pain. In a similar fashion, nitroglycerin tablets are sometimes prescribed before exercise, which ordinarily would produce chest pain.

Tincture of belladonna is an antispasmodic. It is sometimes used in digestive upsets and problems such as George Frazier, Chairman of the Building & Grounds Sub-committee gave the following report Thursday, March 4 to the Citizens Committee For Better Quality Schools in Hope City Hall courtroom.

"The Buildings and Grounds Sub-Committee of the Committee for Better Quality Schools is making an indepth study of the conditions of existing school buildings and the present requirements for additional facilities. The Sub-Committee, after personal inspections of and due deliberations, has formulated the first of a set of definite recommendations to the patrons of Hope School District 1-A."

"First, it is the opinion of this body that the school facilities renovation and construction program as proposed by the Board of Education is adequately justified and in some instances the immediate need is critical."

"Second, the Sub-Committee would like to recommend to the Board of Education the order of priority in the renovations and construction of school facilities."

1. Paisley School Site
a. Complete renovation of existing classroom building. This renovation to include new lighting, new flooring, redecoration of interior, and repair and painting of exterior surfaces.
b. Construction of four (4) new classrooms and a cafeteria with adequate equipment. Approximate Cost $75,000

2. Beryl Henry Site
Construction of five (5) new classrooms Approximate Cost $50,000

3. High School
Vocational Education Shop Building and Equipment Approximate Cost $75,000

Renovation of main building and band building
"The preceding renovation and construction will meet the immediate critical needs for school housing in the school district. However the Sub-Committee would like to go on record in recommending a library building at the Senior High School. This facility will be needed within the next two years unless there is a reorganization of the junior and senior high schools."

"This Sub-Committee, in making and filing this report with the committee chairman, does respectfully urge each interested patron to support and vote for the proposed school tax."

Credit Cards Proliferate But So Also Does Cash

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Those who worked out the elaborate theories on the cashless society involved and now some of their ideas aren't worth a pegged nickel.

Credit cards and checking accounts proliferate, but so also does cash.

The theories apparently failed to fully appreciate human nature, the tax collector's viciousness, the taxpayer's misiveness, the coin collector's quistiveness, the vending machine industry's appetite for the rise in crime.

You could go on but as the Morgan Guaranty Survey uses, "The United States has become, if anything, a more cash than ever society."

There are more than $6.7 billion in coins circulating, or more than double the amount in the early 1960s. And the early $54 billion in bills is about $23.5 billion more than in 1960.

Morgan sought the reasons and came up with these explanations, which remind us of some startling changes that have taken place in society:

—The price of silver rose, making many coins more valuable for their metal content than for their face value. Since 1965, an estimated $2.3 billion in coins have been removed from circulation, forcing the mint to produce millions of new nickel and copper coins.

—Hobbyists and others have removed coins for myriad other reasons. The Kennedy half dollar and the Eisenhower dollar have sentimental value to many people, for example.

—Local sales taxes have risen. Try going to work without taking some change with you. The chances are that if you leave without coins you will come home with plenty of them. That old 98-cent price, for example, becomes $1.05 with a 7 per cent tax. It means that whereas once the storekeeper needed to refund you only two pennies, now you must come up with 5 cents in coins or the storekeeper must give you 96 cents in change.

—Toll booths have appeared on highways, bridges and tunnels all over the country. In order to lessen the complications of highway travel, a vacationing family or a businessman is likely to reserve a supply of coins before embarking.

—Crime. In an increasing number of cities the mass transportation system demands exact change in order to discourage robbery of their drivers. The coins are dropped into a locked repository. The driver carries no money.

—Sales of the vending machine industry rose to more than $6 billion by 1970.

And what about those bills? Inflation has been a major contributor to the average increase of about 6 per cent a year in the volume of paper money. But, says Morgan, tax evasion is believed to be a significant factor.

"There is a strong suspicion that some people—from gamblers and racketeers to white-collar professionals and blue-collar moonlighters—receive payment in cash so that there is no record."

Adding to the demand for bills is the fact that much U.S. currency is circulating abroad. Some of these dollars are used to conduct trade. Some are used in dope traffic.

Two other theories are offered. One, that the United States grew so large in population and output that it simply needed more currency. Two, "a love for lucre," or for the secure feeling of a wad of bills.

Child Center Group Makes 2 Field Trips

The children of the Hempstead Child Development Center recently enjoyed two interesting field trips.

On Tuesday, February 29, Junior Auxiliary member Mrs. Bennett Wood took them on a tour of Byers Greenhouses. They learned about many kinds of plants and the operation of a greenhouse, and left with flowers and seeds to plant at the Center.

On Monday, March 6, the children visited the Southwestern Bell Telephone Offices, which proved to be a fascinating experience. They were accompanied by Junior Auxiliary members Mrs. Doug Haynie and Mrs. Don Gilbert.

The Hope Junior Auxiliary sponsors the Hempstead Child Development Center and provides this enrichment program for the children.

The Center, located behind Hopewell School, is a licensed, non-profit facility providing day care and pre-school enrichment for children three to six years of age. It receives financial support locally from the Junior Auxiliary, United Fund, and County Funds, thereby making it possible to provide a quality day care program for children of low income families. The Center has been in operation for two years, and has been cited several times for its excellent pre-school enrichment program.

Addresses GOP Women

Twenty minutes of questions and answers followed the talk of Rep. Mack McLarty and proved to be enlightening, when the Hempstead County Republican Women's Club had their monthly meeting Tuesday, March 7 in the home of the president, Mrs. Clarence Geist.

As he began his talk, Mr. McLarty re-issued his public statement of the previous day, when he announced that he would not seek re-election. At the same time he assured those present that he would continue to take much interest in the economic growth of our county, even though he would be back in private business.

The speaker's remark's covered the general area of the recent special session of the legislature, including the reasons for calling it and the progress made during it. He gave his views of the current political trend and the general state of the nation, economically, commented on the President's trip to China, and gave his opinion about state and county political races this fall. Mrs. Lynn Harris introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Jim Pruden announced that the State Federation had chartered a bus to the regional conference in Atlanta, Ga., March 22-25. It was announced that the State Federation Scholarship Committee will meet April 8 and now is the time for any interested young person to mail an application. Plans were made for the annual spring Bake and Rummage Sale to be held in downtown Hope April 8.

In order to give the voters a choice, the importance of seeking out good local candidates for office was discussed because the filing deadline is April 4.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the hostess served a dessert plate and coffee to 17, including one new member, Mrs. Bill Feathers, and two guests, the speaker and Mrs. Charles Menz of Battle Creek, Mich.

Cause Can't Be Determined

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Public Service Commission reported Tuesday that its investigators had been unable to determine the primary cause of an explosion Feb. 2 in downtown Newport that demolished or destroyed six buildings and caused $2 million damage.

The report of the Pipeline Safety Division of the PSC discounted the possibility that the rupture of a four-inch cast iron main in the explosion area was the cause of the blast.

The report said the rupture in the main most probably was caused by ground shock wave action from the explosion and apparently was not a factor in the explosion itself.

The investigators said no evidence was found that would substantiate that natural gas was leaking or had accumulated in the immediate vicinity prior to the explosion.

They said they discovered no violation of the Arkansas Gas Pipeline Code and Minimum Federal Safety Standards.

The report said operating and maintenance procedures followed by Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. before and after the explosion complied with the code and standards.

The investigators considered their probe complete, but said they would make a supplemental report if additional information is discovered that would have a bearing on the results of the investigation.
